

About the Author

Like many, the journey of Clarence's life has been propelled from a yearning within to understand some of life's deeper questions. This yearning was initially driven from a dissatisfaction with the answers commonly given to these questions leading to a search both within and without for answers and understanding. This quest has taken Clarence on a journey of both the spiritual and scientific sides of life.

Clarence has spent many years of his adult life exploring the spiritual aspect of existence allowing his inner guide to lead the way.

His search also included receiving a degree in physics from a

Midwestern university and spending over twenty years working as an engineer and manager for a fortune 500 company. Clarence currently makes his home in the Chicago area with his wife Margaret and prior to that has lived in Europe and various places around the United States.

A large portion of Clarence's energies are now devoted to making information available through books, seminars, and discussion groups. It is the author's desire to help others on their spiritual paths and further the expansion of consciousness and self-awareness on the planet through the message, methods and techniques embodied in the material presented.

Over the last several years Clarence has led seminars and discussion groups with emphasis on the Salem message. He has found the teachings of Salem to fit very well with his truth and all that he has encountered on his spiritual journey. Clarence is currently working on a book that will bring together a large portion of Salem's message and will be part of The Path To Remembrance series of works.

Clarence has known and worked with Diandra since 1994. During that time their friendship and respect for each other has grown. Clarence is thankful and honored for Diandra's support in allowing him to play a part in helping to bring the Salem message to others.
